DON'T LET IT HAPPEN HERE

Albany voters should think twice about what happened in Berkeley a few weeks ago. For the third time in two years, Berkeley voters turned thumbs down on school bonds. It seems ironic that a city which is considered education capital of the West should refuse to pay for the education of its own children, but it happened.

The hard-fought election left in its wake bitterness, stunned disbelief and loss of civic pride. As soon as proponents of the measures recover, they will have to try again. But it is a heartbreaking business and, meanwhile, the children of Berkeley will suffer and Berkeley schools are getting a black eye.

On Tuesday, May 9, Albany voters will go to the polls to vote on a proposed 25-cent tax increase for their schools. If it doesn't pass, it will have to come up again. This will mean additional cost and frustration. If it does pass, our schools will continue to operate on a high level with no disruption, cutbacks or loss of services to the community. And the matter will be over and done with for another five years.

Albany schools are rated high in California. They are operating economically. Their curriculum is of the very best. A long-range program is under way.

Why do they need more money? Our schools, like our families and our businesses, are affected by inflation. The kinds of goods and services they must buy are costing more every year.

Second, the Board of Education is concentrating upon a quality educational program which the community seems to demand (small classes, more emphasis upon science, English and reading, and the seven-period day) which of necessity requires more instructors.

Finally, the cost of educating children from University Village is a drain upon Albany's school budget. While the situation seems unfair, this is an obligation which must be assumed until relief is obtained from the State of California. Every effort is being exerted to correct existing conditions.

In any event, the request for the 25-cent increase is not a capricious move on the part of the Board of Education. It represents the minimum needed to maintain status quo in Albany schools. Surely it is a reasonable request and one which will be dealt with favorably on May 9.

Our town's excellent school system is a feather in its cap. It reflects our civic pride and proves that we care about our young people. Many folks have moved here on the strength of the educational program alone. It behooves us all, whether we have youngsters in school or not, to give our vote of confidence to our educational system.

Remember what happened in Berkeley and DON'T LET IT HAPPEN HERE!

Board of Education Issues Statement On Need For Additional Income, Now

Members of the Board of Education of Albany Unified School District decided at their meeting April 25 to issue a joint statement regarding three questions most frequently asked concerning the forthcoming school tax election May 9.

President Charles A. Pinkham and members Mrs. Rae Volz, Robert Litolf, Max D. Kelley and Milton A. Porter have been asked why a 25-cent increase is needed now.

Their answer is that the $2.95 school tax limit set by Albany voters four years ago was about the minimum needed at that time. Little provision was made for the cost increases which have come with continued inflation. Wages and salaries and the cost of materials and equipment have gone up steadily each year. Without the tax increase, the cost of operating Albany schools next year will exceed school income by $50,000. If the tax increase is not granted, the only alternative will be to reduce the school program.

Will teacher salaries be increased next year?

As long as unions have annual increases written into their contracts, as long as industry maintains an escalator wage program, and as long as the teacher shortage continues, Albany, and all school districts, will have to

By IRENE GROVE

The big news for your Albany Chamber of Commerce is the election of six new Directors to the board. We are very proud of the six men and women selected this year — busy and progressive civic leaders — who are willing to give of their time and talents for the coming three years to the business progress of our city.

Here are the new directors of your Albany Chamber of Commerce and the businesses that they represent: Marge Bishop Ackeret, Berkeley Business Service; John Brandau, Johnny's Flying "A" Service; John Pleich Jr., Flowerland Nursery; K. L. Peterson, Peterson Realty; Howard Rohrer, Howards Motors; and Hal Weller, Albany Times. Welcome Aboard!

A most important meeting for your Chamber of Commerce is the May 4th Board of Directors meeting at the Pizzetta. The six new directors, outgoing and hold-over directors will elect the officers for the coming year — we'll introduce them to you next week.

Albany has done it again! Thanks to our most efficient Albany Fire Department — Albany is again a winner of national recognition as a "Fire Safety City" — a winner for the eighth consecutive years of a Merit Award in competition with all cities in the United States with a population of under 20,000. Hats off again (indeed, tossed well into the air) to the Albany Fire Department, Chief Gerald Browne and Captain Richard McSheehy, head of Fire Prevention Bureau. Interesting note — only four other cities in California received recognition in their population classification and no other city in our classification.

COUNCIL ENDORSES VOTE FOR SCHOOLS

The Albany City Council at its Monday night meeting passed unanimously an endorsement of the Albany Unified School District proposed 25-cent increase in the school tax rate, which will be voted on in a special election next Tuesday, May 9.

Terms of the statement endorsing the tax proposal, as issued to the press following the meeting, was as follows:

"With the best interests of our community at heart, we members of the Albany City Council recognize the value and importance of good education. Our schools have been hit by inflation the same as our citizens and our businesses. The tax increase requested is nominal and will guarantee that the high quality of our educational system will be maintained. Therefore, we give the request for an increase our wholehearted support and urge its favorable consideration by the voters of Albany."

The endorsement was signed by Mayor Carlevaro and Councilmen Paul Boyich, Joel Parker, George Hein and Lewis Howell.

In reading the statement Mayor Carlevaro spoke strongly in favor of the measure, and was followed by individual endorsements by the other four members of the Council.

In other action the Council passed an emergency ordinance which prohibits off-street parking within setback and sideyard areas, and also Ordinance No. 61-06 in which the City is vacating various small areas in the vicinity of Jackson and Tull Streets, due to the straightening of those streets.

Residents were also asked to cooperate in eliminating hedges and shrubbery at the front or sides of residence property, and of poor visibility. This situation which create a hazard to both pedestrians and motorists in lieu is especially dangerous near intersections, but often creates a hazard even in the middle of a block. The City Engineer was also asked to make a study of this situation with a view to more definite action if corrective action is not taken within a reasonable length of time by property owners affected.

A long list of measures before the State Legislature was presented by Administrative Assistant James Turner with his recommendations. These were discussed on a broad basis and action taken to enter into discussion in view of their effect upon the welfare of the City.

DeMolay To Assist At O.E.S. Meeting

Albany Chapter No. 550 Order of the Eastern Star, will hold its regular stated meeting Friday evening, May 5, at the Albany Masonic Temple, 533 San Pablo Avenue. The El Cerrito DeMolay will exemplify the "Floral Degree" in honor of Mother's Day. Worthy Matron Helen McKenzie and Worthy Patron Ruben McKenzie will preside.

Letter to Editor

Editor, The Albany Times:

Like many prospective homeowners, we recently compared the school systems of this and neighboring communities before buying a home in Albany. Beyond our primary concern for well educated children, we feel sure that Albany's fine schools have much to do with its sound property values and its reputation as a "city of homes".

The proposed tax increase seems a small price to retain these values, and we heartily support it.

MOTORISTS AND THE LAW

Since the first few horse-drawn carriages started chugging along our highways, angry farmers and other restless citizens have been making up laws to keep the motormen in line. Some of these laws, points out the National Automobile Club, have been quite quaint and some of these quaint laws are still on the books. For instance, the law in Kansas, It says that you can't drive along the street with a bonnet — real bonnet — on that is. Utah the right of way is always for the birds. Take away from the littlest chicken and you're in for trouble. Memphis, Tennessee, you'd better not let the local officer see you driving along while he is asleep. There's a law in that state.

If you plan to drive into Tallahassee, to rob a bank, or murder someone, you'd better report your plan to the local police before you cross the line, or the judge will throw you in jail at you too. In the early days in Pennsylvania the angry farmers formed the Anti-Automobile Society and group drew up some fancy laws. Any motorist driving along a country road at night was

THE EVENING OF MONDAY, MARCH 6, the comparatively new building which housed the Albany law firm of Gaeta and Brophy at 928-930 San Pablo Avenue, was completely gutted by fire. Also housed in the same building were the realty offices of G. D. Gaeta, Chairman of the Albany Civil Service Commission and long time resident of Albany. The law firm lost its entire law library. Above left, Attorney Joe Gaeta is shown as he adds new books to the replacements of those lost in the fire. On the right, Attorney Walter Brophy is checking over some of the files which were also considered a complete loss. They had contained 3,800 individual case records, but a complete check showed that only 12 case files had been lost. The night of the fire it was thought the loss of these had been complete. The law firm was back in business at a temporary location the next morning. Loss of building and contents was estimated at upwards of $100,000.

Senior Citizen Activities, 850 Masonic

The Senior Citizens group at 850 Masonic Avenue is planning to observe Mother's Day, the evening of Tuesday, May 9. There will be a short program and special refreshments.

Tuesday evening, May 23, Mrs. Fred Lennox of the Lennox Camera Shop will show a travel film taken during some of the Lennox world-wide travel scenes. Mrs. Lennox also has a film taken some time ago of the Albany Seniors "In Action", which will be shown the same evening.

Mary Arns, program chairman of the Senior Citizens, reports that plans are complete for the trip to San Simeon May 17-18. Several one-day trips are also planned during the summer months.

The Senior Center at 850 Masonic is open every Sunday afternoon for card playing. All Seniors are welcome.

The Senior Citizen bowling group plays every Friday at one o'clock at the Albany Bowl. New members are always welcome.

Do not forget to call LA 5-9124, or LA 6-3078 to secure your seat on the special Senior Citizen bus to San Simeon for the two-day outing trip May 17-18.

The White Elephant and baked good sale sponsored by the Senior Citizens on April 5 proved a great success. The Seniors wish to thank all those who purchased the goods on sale, and also those who dropped in to have their lunch at the Center.

LAW IN THE NEWS

WARRANTIES
It's a good idea for "the buyer to beware" but the law can also make a seller wish he too had been careful of what he claimed for his goods.
Suppose, to get you to buy, a seller makes certain factual claims for his goods or services. These claims may become a warranty upon which he may have to make good one way or another.
"The engine is new."
"This perfume came from Paris, France."
"The picture is a genuine Cézanne."
If you rely upon his claims, as factual, and they are not true then you may (1) call the dealer off, (2) get your money back, or (3) sue for breach of warranty.

A seller may keep quiet, may make no express warranties in so many words: Still the law may make him responsible for "implied" warranties by his conduct. Suppose you tell the seller that you want a tractor which can do certain things. If he sells you one, he impliedly guarantees that it will serve your purposes. Of course, if you tell him the make and model of the machine, you take away his implied responsibility for performance. You may still hold him for the written warranty.

You only have to show that the seller breached his warranty, namely that knowing what you wanted the thing for, he sold you something that wouldn't serve the purpose.
As a rule, the warranty holds good only for the buyer. If the defective goods harm another, this third party may have no claim under a warranty. But the warranty that food items are fit to eat and sometimes that drugs have certain qualities applies to anyone who used them, not merely the buyer.
Such a warranty is called a "jumping warranty": you need not show that you bought the food item, or that the maker did not prepare it with due care: All you need to show a court is that you ate it, and it harmed you.

An injured third party may recover damages, not for a breach of warranty, but for the maker's lack of due care. For example, suppose a defective car crashes into a bystander; or a neighbor using your ladder gets hurt. In that case the third party might not sue on a warranty, but on a "tort" involving negligence in the making of the car or the ladder.
SPEED
Speed can turn "skill" into "kill", warns the National Automobile Club.

New Apartments on Kains Completed

The luxurious new Monteverde Apartments located at 1062 Kains Avenue, Albany, were completed today and ready to lease, according to Jerome Blank, local realtor, and developer. The new building has eight 2-bedroom units, all with wall to wall carpeting and electric kitchens. One of the new architectural features is the individual balconies, and the new screen-block facade. The site development was in charge of Dennis Williams, an associate of Jerome Blank Realty, and the building was by Carter and Rago, well known local builders. Landscaping by John Fleich of Flowerland Nursery.

Progress report on your $283-million Water Development Program: 1/3 complete, on schedule, within budget Figures, figures, figures — what do they mean? Here are a few facts to help you interpret the table above:

The area served by EBMUD has a population of approximately 1-million. On an average day in 1960, these people used 154-million gallons of water at home and business.

The experts tell us EBMUD's service area will ultimately have a whopping 2.6-million people. The water needs of a population that size are estimated, conservatively, at 340-million gallons a day!

Rest assured — the water will be there. You made sure of that in 1958 by authorizing a $283-million water development program that is already one-third complete, on schedule, and well within budget.

LAW IN ACTION

MANDAMUS

Our courts work on the principle that there should be no wrong without a remedy. This principle applies to the relations between the ordinary citizen and public officials.

You have a lawful right for public officers to do certain things which personally affect you. Yet, suppose they won't. And suppose money damages alone may not undo the wrong done you.

Take a principal who won't let your child go to a school although the child is eligible. In such a case a court may grant you a special remedy—a writ of mandamus—to get justice done.

In a writ of mandamus a court orders someone, as a rule a public officer, to do his lawful public duty.

When can you seek such a writ? (1) You must show the court that you have an existing right, not a new one you are trying to set up, (2) you must have used up other means of getting the duty done; and (3) the officer, of course, must owe you the duty under the law. It must not be something the law permits him to do or not in his discretion.

Last, before you seek your writ, you must give the officer the opportunity to do what you want him to do by asking him to do it. If he still won't act, you can then ask the court for the writ.
